IN WHAT APPEARS TO be a growing sentiment among Church leaders, the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines (CBCP) yesterday urged the government to abandon plans for Charter change (Cha-cha) until after the 2010 presidential polls.

"Philippines deserve a better kind of leaders than what we have now," the bishops said in their latest statement against efforts by President Nacipal-Arroyo's allies in the House of Representatives to railroad the amendment of the 1987 Constitution through a constituent assembly (Con-ast).

'Requiem for land reform'

By Gil C. Cabacungan Jr., Lito S. Salaverria and Michael Lim-Ulac

FOR FREE BENEDICT LAGMAN, THE procedure was nothing more than "a killing and a beheading" of the heart and soul of the government's major poverty alleviation initiative for two decades.

Before going on a month-long Christmas break last night, 14 senators approved a joint resolution extending for six months the Comprehensive Agrarian Reform Program (CARP) on its expiration at the year-end.

Senators Norberto Aguirre and Mar Roxas, whose families are usually sugar plantation owners, abstained.

The House of Representatives was expected to follow suit and approve the resolution, but ended up on Tuesday during a meeting of leaders of the two chambers with President Nacipal-Arroyo with the caveat that there would be no new land acquisition during the period.

In a caucus earlier yesterday, the House agreed to approve the resolution, but heated debates well into the night de-

Bolante memory vague anew on meeting scam 'fixer'

By Christine O. Arellano

AN AGRICULTURE OFFICIAL yesterday linked Jocelyn Bolante to a man described as "one of the fixers and one of those manipulating" the P728-million fertilizer handouts.

At the 20th hearing of the Senate blue ribbon committee on the handouts, Agriculture Undersecretary Belinda Gonzalez said she was present at a meeting with Bolante late in 2002 when the man "fixed" Jaime Pardo, who is now being hunted by police investigators. Another witness, Leticia Mero, Ullera, also testified that she knew Pardo and Marlon Ayon, the purported rafter of Bolante and a constant no-show at the Senate inquiry.

Ullera said she had helped Pardo and Ayon by issuing checks to Pardo Philippines Inc., the biggest supplier in the P728-million fertilizer project. Bolante supplied fertilizers amounting to P195 million to local government officials who benefited from the project. Sen. Richard Gordon, chair of the blue ribbon committee, immediately ordered Pardo and Ayon arrested.

$300-M loan for RP justice

ADB package to improve integrity of judiciary

THE ASIAN DEVELOPMENT BANK WANTS TO IMPROVE THE integrity of the Philippine justice system with a $300 million loan, saying low salaries among judges and prosecutors are the main cause of corruption and trial delays.

The Manila-based lender said in a recent study it conducted that governance and corruption remain coupled with weak internal controls and inadequate infrastructure among justice agencies in the Philippines.

"It is judiciary and justice sector agencies that are the backbone of the justice system, a well-functioning justice system is therefore key to support sustained growth and poverty reduction," the ADB said in a statement.

Funding food subsidies

The World Bank meanwhile has approved a $200 million loan to the Philippines to help the government keep the prices of various food items within reach of the poor.

The aid will be used to fund the government's "conditional cash transfer program as the main vehicle for social protection," the bank said in a statement.

It would also provide "technical, financial and educational assistance to the justice system to reform the justice system, and having regular personnel and professional fee matters."

Two in five Filipinos live on two dollars a day or less, according to World Bank data. In Indonesia, the World Bank country director for the Philippines, Ivan A. Hernandez, said, "The Philippines is a country with a high level of corruption and poverty."

Hernandez expects the Philippine economy to grow by just three percent in 2009. It was a three-and-a-half percent in 2008 and about 4.3 percent in 2007.

"We want to support the country management team's efforts to strengthen the justice system by supporting the government in designing supportive policies," he added.

The loan terms were not disclosed.

Higher salaries

The $300 million ADB loan will be used to increase budget resources and financial controls in the judiciary as well as support more competitive salaries among judges and prosecutors to help reduce corruption and help cut delays in the justice system.

"This program responds to a clear message we get from repeated surveys, that the Filipino people expect higher standards from their public officials," said Giovanni Azzurro, director for the ADB programs and trade relations.

Military wants truce with NPA 'short and sweet'

MARINE THE HOLIDAY CELEBRATIONS WITH the communist New People's Army (NPA) and peace is one important reason the military has learned from its previous losses, the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Carlos Garcia.

Talking to reporters on the sidelines of a press conference at the AFP's main headquarters in Camp Aguinaldo, Camp Crame, Manila, said a brief day negotiation of ceasefire and other operations was enough to allow soldiers to be instructed to celebrate the Christmas season with their families.

He added that the NPA has a tendency to take advantage of religious occasions.

On Tuesday, Garcia declared a two-day truce with the communist insurgents, which will be implemented on December 24 and 25, and December 31 and January 1.

"This is a substance development although it is not as long as it was last year, when the ceasefire lasted for three weeks (Dec. 16 to Jan. 12)," said Garcia.

Garcia Chief of Staff Gen. Alexander "Noy" Garcia said the military has to be on alert even the day after Christmas as armed rebels tend to "misinterpret" their negotiators' goodwill gesture by launching attacks against government troops.

The Christmas Party of the Philippines will start 4:00 p.m. on Dec. 24.

Oil firms slash autoLPG prices

By Altag L. Ho

TOTAL PHILIPPINE COMPASS HARTON Petroleum Corp. slashed P1 off their price of autoLPG, a liquefied petroleum gas used in transport fuel.

Total implemented the rollback at 6 p.m. on Dec. 18, while Eastern Petroleum cut its at 8 a.m. yesterday.

Total's autoLPG is now priced at P16.99 a liter, while that of Eastern fell to P16.99 a liter.

The price cut will benefit hundreds of commuters using autoLPG.

Owners of vehicles using other fuels are likely to enjoy a similar treat. Eastern said it will also reduce its price of autoLPG.

Transport groups want their prices brought down to P16 per liter.

"A P20-a-liter pump price? That's not fair, that will not happen. The landed cost for December is P16 and here P20 is the cost," said a group spokesman.

The transport group P33.50 for (petroleum) is too high. It is said to be an overcharge.

SEC admits failure in Madoff scam

WASHINGTON—IN A STUNNING REFUTE, THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION (SEC) chair blames his career regulator for a decade-long failure to investigate Wall Street money manager Bernard L. Madoff, now accused of running one of the largest pyramid schemes ever.

On Tuesday night, SEC Chair Christopher Cox ordered an internal investigation of what were wrong and offered a scathing critique of the center of his staff's actions. Cox said his staff's actions were not only a failure but also a disgrace. He ordered a full-scale investigation that would have looked Madoff to uncover what information under reporters. Instead, the staff relied on information which said that Madoff was a firm.

Cox said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record. He said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record. He said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record.

Black money from the Madoff office have inflated around the globe at a growing number of prominent charitable foundations, big investment banks and individual investors worldwide. Madoff's net worth is estimated at $1.5 billion.

Madoff is alleged to have used Ponzi, or pyramid, schemes. This is a familiar investing technique that promises high rates of returns.

In the scheme, money provided by new investors is used to pay investors which means to really stage investors. The scheme collapses when required subscriptions exceed new investments.

"I am greatly concerned by the apparent multiple failures over at least a decade to thoroughly investigate these allegations or at any point to seek help from the public," Cox said in a written statement.

The SEC chair said Madoff kept several sets of books and false documents, and provided false information regarding the investment advisory services to investors not to regulators.

Separately, Douglas Haddock, chief executive of Securities Investor Protection Corp. (SIPC), said one set of Madoff's books kept track of the losses at his investment advisory arm, while the other was what investors were owed.

SIPC, created by Congress and funded by the securities industry, can give investors up to $500,000 if it is determined their money was stolen. SIPC has about $1.5 billion in assets, which means that amount could quickly be depleted if Madoff's investors were to sue.

That figure comes from the SEC's most complete, which states Madoff admitted to losses in that amount to most senior employees of his firm before his arrest last Thursday.

Cox's harsh assessment may have the effect of shifting questions away from the politically appointed five-member commission and placing blame squarely—if not solely—on the agency's staff for failing to aggressively pursue a matter.

Cox's statement is just a first in a new criticism of the SEC, an agency increasingly seen in Congress and elsewhere as incapable of carrying out its basic mission. Investors have lost billions of dollars on Wall Street.

Cox said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record. He said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record. He said he was shocked by the SEC's failure to investigate Madoff's financial record.

Pacman, Arum want Hatton first

US promoter negotiating date of fight; England venue ruled out

By Ray Loria

GEN. SANTOS—FILIPINO RING KING MANNY PACQUIAO and his promoter Bob Arum agree that British superstar Ricky "The Hitman" Hatton is next in line.

It's only the date of the fight that they have not settled.

"Five months," Pacquiao said, then paused. "Let's see. We haven't talk about it yet."

Pacquiao, prompted with the introduction of his 2006 title bout here yesterday, was referring to Arum's announcement that he is talking with the Hatton camp and that the bout has been tentatively set for May 2 in Las Vegas—was in England's international fight this week.

Arum, the top boss of Top Rank, at first in Manila Tuesday morning. He said he has not formally conferred with Pacquiao about the details of the negotiations for the Hatton show down.

As for Pacquiao's greatest fight, including his phenomenal eight-round knockout of Oscar De La Hoya on Dec. 6 in Las Vegas, Arum does all the negotiations but states it is a point to consult with his prime word on the final details.

For his part, Pacquiao gives Arum all the necessary to break ahead, stating that his job is to make and fight any opponent that comes his way.

Lower pay-per-view income

Even though Virgilijus Daudinis can accommodate 50,000 people—a lot more than when the arena at MGM Grand at Mandalay Bay can do—payers say the Pacquiao-Hatton fight cannot make a big pay-per-view event because the hour will have to be held early in the morning.

tion—the biggest for any sports event in the United States this year.

Insider: Mayweather

Other than his drawing power, Hatton has given preference over Floyd Mayweather Jr. because, according to Team Pacquiao leaders, the longer Mayweather remains inactive, the better will be Pacquiao's chance of making his undebated return.

Mayweather, who has beaten both Hatton and De La Hoya, earlier announced his intention to come out of retirement to battle with Pacquiao and Hatton, who is really the world's best pound-for-pound fighter.

Meanwhile, the World Boxing Council has named Pacquiao as its Fighter of the Year, according to a following report yesterday.

Pacquiao's selection was expected considering his eight-dominant victory over Juan Manuel Marquez and his success of David Diaz and De La Hoya, respectively.

Kobe rallies Lakers; T-Mac boosts Rockets

Paul, West lift Hornets past Grizzlies

Kobe Bryant scored 28 points to help the Los Angeles Lakers rally from a 16-point halftime deficit to edge the New York Knicks, 115-114, on Tuesday.

New York shocked the Lakers by taking a 40-30 lead at the midway point, but the Lakers outscored the Knicks, 46-29, in the second half to subdue the visitors, who slipped to 11-21 with their second straight defeat.

"It was a challenging game," Lakers coach Phil Jackson said. "I think we recognized that at half time, we didn't see players answering the kind of challenge."

Los Angeles (21-14) won its fourth straight game and 14th in the last 15 games, but not before struggling all night against the determined Knicks, who made 13 three-point shots and 27 of their 28 free throws.

Despite the defeat, New York coach Mike D'Antoni was happy with his young team's progress.

"We worry about the fact, but I think we're playing better," said D'Antoni, whose team went 3-0 in its first three road games.

"We said that this was going to be a scoring attack. We said to let the ball get together and get out on a fast break. We said to let the ball get out on a fast break. We said to let the ball get out on a fast break."

Tracy McGrady scored 28 points and rebounded 11 times to lead the Houston Rockets to a 116-91 victory over the Chicago Bulls. McGrady had 20 points and rebounded 11 times in his first game back after a season-long injury.

Asean economic ministers sign 3 trade agreements

Big push for single market, regional production base

By Bernadette Sison

ECONOMIC MINISTERS OF THE 10 nations of Southeast Asian Nations signed on Sunday three trade agreements to enhance trade and production base for the region's growth.

According to the Asian Coordinator, the pact included the Asian Trade to Goods Agreement (ATGA), the Asian Comprehensive Economic Agreement (ACEA) and the Framework to Implement the TBT Package of Commitment under the Asian Framework Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade (AFATBT).

The economic ministers met a day after foreign ministers gathered in Jakarta to mark the entry into force of the Asian Charter, which gives Asian single personalities.

The ATGA covers the lowering of tariffs, removing non-tariff barriers, facilitating trade and establishing rules of origin, customs procedures, standards and conformity, trade sanitary and phytosanitary measures.

The ATGA also integrates into one comprehensive framework all of Asia's existing and new commitments and initiatives that are related to trade in goods in one comprehensive framework.

The ATGA also integrates into one comprehensive framework all of Asia's existing and new commitments and initiatives that are related to trade in goods in one comprehensive framework.

Such agreements are through trade pacts in any other in effort to trade in negotiations are being planned.

The ACEA is a "forward-looking" agreement aimed at boosting the growth of Asia as a more viable and a leading in economic community.

The approval of the ACEA supports efforts in liberalizing and providing investors through extensive protection and facilitation program as a first in facilitating cooperation among Asian investors for foreign direct investment coming from outside the region.

The TBT package provides about 1000 pages in further to the existing TBT in the existing pact in line with the targets identified in the meeting to build the Asian Economic Community.

Seni Purnomo, Asian secretary general, said in a statement that the pact would benefit traders and consumers in reduction of tariffs and quotas among member states.

As for the ACEA, Seni said this would enable Asian to maintain its position as a leading destination to investment and the global financial crisis.

"This is essential to reduce uncertainties and transaction costs in investment in Asia," Seni said.

He added that the TBT package would reflect Asian's commitment to achieve higher levels of market openness in the services sector.

near parity of its value in recent months.

The Fed's move, which is expected to be effective in spurring credit expansion by the private sector, would be positive for the rest of the economy in the world, including the Philippines.

Philippine Governor Ricardo Trillanes said in a brief message in response to the move.

The Fed's announcement pushed a big rally in the Philippine stock market, with the PSE 1000 index averaging 1,200 points, or 4 percent, in response to the Fed's move.

The reaction in Asian markets was more muted.

For example, in Japan, the Nikkei 225 stock average was down 0.2 percent after initially doing 1.1 percent.

Hang Seng's Hong Kong index rose 0.7 percent to 17,205.52 while the Hang Seng 1000 index rose 0.7 percent to 17,205.52.

Philippine and Indonesia added about 1 percent to their respective stock markets.

Meanwhile, the Fed's move will likely increase the peso's value in the market, which is a reinforcing the recent financial crisis since the Great Depression of the 1930s and a pushing measure that is already the largest in a quarter century.

The move on the volatility is expected to get worse before a gain, Seni said.

Victory in Singapore

Search for Best Features for 'Your Side of the Street' by Gabe Averbach. It is the first solo study. Gabe painted on. Last year, he shared the Singapore Best Production Award with his film 'Your Side of the Street' by Gabe Averbach.

Inspiration to be and the 'Shooting' was used to shoot the movie's first shot out of '50' a composition. He explained: 'Hopefully this will push me to work harder with the right perspective, to not get lost in the idea of a different perspective to the US.' Gabe said he would stay in Singapore until the announcement of the final winners for Best Foreign Language Film next month, and to attend the Asian Film Festival and other events there.

He said where 'Shooting' has been used for screenings.
